

Betty Louise Cash

January 16, 2026

Betty Louise Cash, 88, of Charlotte, NC, passed on January 16, 2026 at Novant Presbyterian Hospital, comforted by the love and presence of her family. Born in Staunton, Virginia on November 13, 1937, Betty was the middle of five children—blessed with two older sisters, a younger sister, and a younger brother. She grew up in the Shenandoah Valley, a place she cherished throughout her life which will also serve as her final resting place. Her family recognizes her legacy simply; Mom grew up with nothing yet gave everything.

Betty moved with her mother and siblings to Baltimore during her teenage years, where she later met Russell Huston while he was attending military training in Annapolis. After a brief courtship, they swiftly married in July of 1956. Russell whisked her away to the remote and northern quiet of the Huston family farm in Perham, Maine—a place where she built a beautiful life rooted in family, faith, community outreach, hard work, self determination and resilience.

Her life in Maine began in a humble trailer near the pond on the Borden Farm. This is where Betty welcomed her first child, Mark, on the day of her first wedding anniversary. Later, sons David and Eric were born and initially raised on the Everett Road farm in Woodland. In 1968, the family moved to the paternal family home next to the Perham Baptist church where Betty actively practiced her faith. While planning and building a new home, Betty was blessed to become pregnant again. She welcomed daughter Juanita in 1976, soon after the move to Mouse Island Road.

Betty's life was defined by devotion—to her children, to her extended family, and to anyone who needed her. Having grown up with very little, she worked tirelessly to ensure her children had every opportunity she had been forced to forgo. At just 14, she left school to help support her family, and by 15 she had risen to floor supervisor at Woolworth's in Baltimore—an early sign of her maturity, intelligence, and unstoppable work ethic. She encouraged her children to pursue education and achievement; Mark served his country in the military; David returned to the family farm to continue its heritage; Eric graduated college from University of Maine; and Juanita attended Penn State University to follow her dreams. Later in life, Betty returned to complete her own education, earning her GED—and graduating as valedictorian of her class. She, and her family, were very proud of her for this achievement.

Her role as a grandmother was one of her greatest joys. With an 11-year gap between her youngest son and daughter, Betty experienced two generations of grandchildren, extending her years of nurturing, guiding, and loving. In remembrance, nephews and nieces have commented “If something needed doing, Aunt Betty got it done”. She didn't talk about it—she simply did it. She had a remarkable awareness of the needs around her and believed there was no time like the present to act.

Betty loved puzzles and games, and her competitive streak was legendary—she played to win, even against the grandchildren she adored. Her faith was deep and steady, shaping her life and the way she cared for others. After moving to Charlotte, she continued her lifelong habit of looking after those around her. When she was not caring for her own grandchildren, she was likely caring for other little ones including serving at the elementary school where her grandchildren attended. She also served as President of her senior community, Alpine Village, where she was known for her vivacious energy, leadership, kindness, and unwavering sense of responsibility.

Her family and friends take comfort in knowing she is no longer struggling with aging physical ailments as a result of living a full and long life. They remember her as the one who showed them how to persevere, how to love, how to show up when it mattered, and how to smile even through the hardest moments. Her grandchildren can all attest that she had the best lap for hugs & rocking. Her granddaughters will forever hear her say the words “You will always be my baby.” Even her sisters have said Betty was always the one who made sure everyone was safe and okay. When things got hard, Betty took the reins.
