April 7, 1941 - August 4, 2019

Blui Nay, 78, of Charlotte, NC, died August 4, 2019, under the care of the staff of Harris Hospice at Novant Health – Presbyterian Campus in Charlotte.

Blui was born in Vietnam on April 7, 1941. Starting in 1956, he attended Sabatier Y-ut College before attending the University of Saigon in 1961. He completed his studies as an engineer and in 1965, went to work at Pleiku in public works. In 1970, he took a position in Saigon as an inspector of land reform programs. When communism took over the country in 1975, Blui was sent to a government re-education camp in Nghe Tinh until he was finally released in 1985 and returned home with his family. Following this experience, he did not like communism and in 1993, he and his family later came to the United States under a humanitarian operation program where they lived in Lansing, Michigan and ultimately moved to Charlotte, NC. He enjoyed many things including tending to his garden and spending time with his church family at St. John Neumann Catholic Church, but most of all, he loved the time spent with family and friends.
