“ *Mom,
I'm having a hard time in my life right now & I need you more than ever!! never realized how much you sheltered me from the storms that have come my way.I've put myself in some bad situations that could've hurt me.These things didn't happen while you were alive,i feel like i've been Fed to the wolves all of this past year Mom!! I do hear you when you talk to me and I listen when you tell me what to do.I am so lonely here with out my best friend,my sister,my Mom & my light❤️*

“ mom,
I can't understand loss, but I do understand love. Losing you is what I call an unexpected snow. One moment the sky looks clear and the next the sky is falling, I can run inside and hide or I can become a part of it and let it change me. Losing you has changed me i will never be the same .

Love your daughter, sister and best friend,

Stacy

“ Mary Ann,
I will always remember the long talks we shared we were either mad or laughing but always good. You were by my side the whole way when giving birth to my beautiful daughter Cecily Ann. You really were like a mom to me at that time of my life, so far from home I was. I'm thankful for the time we got to share I will miss that always.

Love, Sheila

“ From you're loving son Ricky, Mom thanks for always being there for me growing up and all the things you did for us kids. I always admired you're strength and all the things you did without any help or support from any man. You had to be a mother and a father, I will never forget that. You will be in my heart forever.
love you're oldest son,
Rick
